The Complete Topic Assessment System
Quizzes: Set A For each topic, a 30-mark multiple-choice quiz with answers and explanations.	Quizzes: Set B A second quiz per topic, covering the same content, allowing students to retry after completing the first test. ✓
Tests: Set A One-hour set of short-answer questions per topic. Each question is a bite-size challenge towards an essay.	Tests: Set B A second one-hour test per topic, with questions cleverly mirrored from Test A.
Essays: Set A 12 essay questions with model answers for students to analyse and compare with their own.	Essays: Set B 12 more essay questions on similar topics, with indicative content for easy self- or peer-marking.

Ideas for using Set A and Set B:

- Set Quiz A immediately after teaching the topic, then use Quiz B later to check knowledge retention.
- Set Quiz A as an in-class assessment, discussing the answers afterwards and focusing on those most students got wrong. Then set Quiz B as a follow-up homework exercise – the questions are different enough that students won't have learnt the answers by rote, but they should have a better understanding from the discussion and correction of answers in class, and score more highly on the second quiz.
- Students revise as homework using Quiz A before doing Quiz B in class under test conditions.
- Students work through Quiz B with teacher input to consolidate on areas of weakness identified from completing Quiz A under test conditions in class.
